

Malvern Official Suspended

Malvern, April 13. — (UP)—The official to be suspended in Malvern and Hot Spring counties, which has been promised for two to three days.

The official, Malvern City Police, said he was innocent of the three bribery charges against him yesterday. His attorney, Kenneth Coffelt of Little Rock, asked for an early trial in the circuit court Judge J. Danus after declaring publicly that Coffelt was not guilty.

The charges accuse Coffelt of accepting bribes from W. Jackson, who was earlier indicted by the Hot Spring grand jury, and given a suspended sentence for possessing and selling liquor in the city county. Coffelt released a bond of $500 for the three charges.

Another of the officials accused of accepting bribes and liquor in Malvern was awaiting court action. Chief Deputy Sheriff Clarence McCrary was free on bond of $500, with 34 specific charges against him. He was accused on 12 counts of possessing and selling whiskey and five counts of accepting bribes and five counts of accepting bribes.

The charges were filed while McCrary was out on bond of $34,000 on charges of accepting money and merchandise as bribes. Coffelt is representing McCrary as well as Fowler.

The other officials charged in the widespread clean-up drive which began March 25 were City Alderman C. W. Hartwick, junior, who was ousted from office, fined, and given a suspended sentence for violation of gambling laws and Ed Deere, Hot Spring county sheriff, who was relieved of duties pertaining to liquor law enforcement by Judge Roy Dantiser.

Distant Star

BY HERMINA BLACK

THE STORY: Clemency Norton is a young girl who lives with her mother and father in a small town. She is a very beautiful girl and is very popular. She is also a very kind and generous girl. She is the only daughter of a very rich man. She is the only daughter of a very rich man. She is the only daughter of a very rich man.

BY the time her charge was safely up for the night, the weather showed signs of clearing; but even if the rain had still been torrential, Clemency knew that she could not have stayed in another minute. Warning Loulie to listen in case Baba woke up and wanted anything, she put on her markintosh, and tying a handkerchief over her head, sallied forth.

Clemency hesitated. It would soon be very dark, and though somewhere up there a moon was growing towards the full, its light would probably be dimmed. But she felt she needed more freedom of exercise than just walking round the tiled paths of the courtyard gave scope for, and decided to go along the road; she would hardly be likely to meet anyone unfriendly.

About half a mile along, the road forked, one portion of it running down to the banks of the small river which watered the oasis. There were some flat stones, and sitting down on one of them, Clemency pulled the handkerchief off her hair, and raising her face, took a deep breath.

She remained musing while the African darkness, which falls like a suddenly dropped cloak, had come down over the land.

She was trying to make up her mind to move, when the sound of a quick, firm step on the road behind her made her turn her head sharply.

"Good gracious, I thought you were a ghost! What on earth are you doing here, Miss Norton?" exclaimed Piers Ambery.

"COLONEL AMBERLEY! No, I'm not a ghost, I'm equally relieved to find that you are not a wandering nomad."

Clemency made no comment; the whole scene had been extremely distasteful. Piers only lingered to tell her that she was expecting some friends tomorrow.

Says Binaggio Did Not Know of Danger

(Editor's note: Mrs. Cecilia Binaggio, widow of slain politician Charles Binaggio, granted this, her only interview since her husband was killed, on the hour a week after Binaggio was shot to death in his Truman road cabriolet in Kansas City.)

By SAM MELNICK

Kansas City, Mo., April 13. — (UP)—Charles Binaggio was a gentle husband who was unacquainted with the national crime syndicate, indulged in embroidery for a hobby, and apparently had no idea he was slated to be killed, his widow said today.

Pretty Mrs. Cecilia Binaggio, 28, granted her only interview since Binaggio and his lieutenant, Charles Gargotta were killed to this reporter last night as the clocked ticked toward 8:15 p. m.

A week ago at that time, gunmen shot the two men in Binaggio's Truman road headquarter.

"The day he was murdered he took his mother-in-law to town," the pretty widow said. "The he ordered Easter candy for our daughter, Anita. He picked her up after school and then worked on the garden the rest of the afternoon."

Mrs. Binaggio said her husband left home for the last time about 7:30 p. m., saying he was "just going down on the boulevard for a short time." He did not appear to be worried and did not mention any meetings.

"He wasn't afraid of anything," she said. "This talk about his having been given a death warrant somewhere around St. Louis—that's ridiculous."

Series of School Conventions in Progress

By The Associated Press

Apparently a goodly part of Arkansas is convention-bound this weekend.

This is especially true of the youngsters who are holding at least six meetings throughout the state Friday and Saturday.

These included three district meetings of the Future Farmers of America, one district meeting of the Future Homemakers of America, a state convention of the National (High School) Honor Society at Hope, and a convention of the Arkansas Association of (High School) Student Councils at Magallowa.

Auto Strike Slows Plant at Helena

West Helena, April 14. — (P)—The current strike of the United Auto Workers (CIO) against Chrysler corporation has slowed down a local industry.

All but about a third of the normal work force has been laid off at the Pekin Woods Products company, which produces wood parts for Chrysler vehicles.

General Manager John Stucker said nothing had been shipped to Chrysler in 30 days.

Stucker refused to speculate on future operation.

Gentle Spring Still Awaited Over U. S.

By The Associated Press
It's mid-April and spring, sweet, gentle, spring, is three weeks old, and acting like old man winter.

The season of light showers, soft winds, budding trees and flowers and green grass is "way off" the climatic beam over many parts of the country.

In the Midwest, it might as well be winter. The eastern states don't feel too hot about their brand of spring weather, either. There's too much zing and sting in the air, much like the winter season variety.

There's not much, if any, spring fever in the belt hit by the unseasonable cold — from the Northern Plains, across the Great Lakes region and into the middle and North Atlantic region. Some of the chilly air has seeped into southern states.

Temperatures are far off normal. Snow is on the ground in many areas. Furnace fires are getting the same back-breaking attention as in midwinter. Kids are following the calendar and playing baseball dressed like skidders. Snowplows remained necessary equipment in the Dakotas and sections of New England.

The major league baseball teams moved out of the sunny and mild (in most places) south to their frosty home bases. They were hoping for warmer weather before the season's league opening games next Tuesday.

Route 2, Rosston, recently participated in a demonstration at McKnight Barracks in Tokyo, showing the combat operations of Medical Company which services and supports the entire regiment.

DOROTHY DIX Husband's Rights

Dear Miss Dix: What has a young husband a right to expect of his wife?

YOUNG MAN ABOUT TO BE MARRIED

Answer: Well, first and foremost of all, a man has a right to expect love from his wife. A husband has the right to expect his wife to make the headlines in their little world. To put him above the baby. Before her family.

A man has a right to expect a wife to make him a comfortable home and to provide him with good, nourishing, well-cooked meals. It is the man's business to bring home the bacon. It is the woman's business to cook it to a turn.

A man has a right to expect his wife to be a good sport and to take the bitter along with the sweet of matrimony. Life isn't easy sledding for anyone. Hard

Second Wedding Planned by 'World Citizen'

Ellsworth, Me., April 14 —(AP)—Garry Davis wants to "double lock" his union with a soulful bride who shares his ideas on world peace through love.

That's why, Band Leader Moyer Davis said, his 28-year-old son—self-styled world citizen—and Hollywood Dancer Audrey Peters, 21, plan a second wedding today.

This one will be a civil ceremony—and private.

Their first, in chilly, wind-swept city hall plaza late yesterday, was witnessed — and participated in — by some 500 people.

Miss Dix: About six years ago my sister brought a young married woman home with her for a visit. We became attracted to each other and I finally obtained a divorce from my wife and she later obtained a divorce from her husband and we plan to be married. But lately I have been thrown in contact in a business way with a young woman, whom I have always greatly admired, and respected, and we have fallen very much in love with each other. I have tried to give her up and stay away from her, but I can't do it. She is different from any girl I have ever known and I know we could be very happy times come. Then it is he has a right to expect his wife not to weaken him with her whines and complaints, or take the last ounce of courage out of him by her reproaches and reminders of the mistakes he has made.

A husband has a right to expect his wife to be a helpmeet. He has a right to expect her to try to make friends for him and to press-agent his virtues instead of advertising his faults. He has a right to expect her to be thrifty and deny herself the things she wants to help along his business.

A husband has a right to expect his wife to accord him a reasonable amount of personal liberty. No man deliberately marries to get a jailer, or to have someone tell him where he gets on and where he gets off. A husband has a right to expect his wife not to throw away after marriage the bait with which she caught him. He has a right to expect her to keep herself looking neat and attractive.

Finally, a husband has a right to expect his wife to show him some appreciation. The average man spends his life telling like slave to support his family. All that he makes goes to his wife and children, and the only way his wife can repay him is by telling him how grateful she is, and that she thinks that no hero has anything on him.

Dear Miss Dix: What do you think of secret marriages? Not the parties to such an affair living in legalized adultery, but their relations are publicly nonced?

Answer: The legitimacy of marriage is determined by legal status and whether it is public or not has nothing to do with its being a binding contract. But personally, I think a marriage is always a mistake, that, no matter what the circumstances, it is far better to be openly and aboveboard and to know each other in the light of all men. I think this is even if the circumstances are such that a couple cannot live together at the time. They have tumbled into the holiest of holiest in a way that demands the respect of the world.

py together. However, a partly responsible for my ce's divorce I feel in honor to marry her. Please advise what to do.

Answer: Don't marry No. 8. Don't marry No. 8. Don't marry any woman whatever, no man how much you may think are in love with her at the time. For you are one of the "men" who are only capable of passing fancy and you have right to mess up women by marrying them.

A man who is lured by a pretty face and to whom a fluttering skirt is a challenge, get up and follow. He should size his own weakness and not enough humanity about him to make innocent women victims of his constitutional instability. Such a man could not be loyal and faithful. He tried. And he never was. He has always a roving eye and there ways be some woman who have an allure that his doesn't possess.

You may hurt their vanity in forsaking them before marriage, but you won't give them the moral wound that you deal them in forcing them to divorce you if they marry you. You can have a greater than being a philanderer's wife.

Dear Dorothy Dix: What do you think of secret marriages? Not the parties to such an affair living in legalized adultery, but their relations are publicly nonced?

Bing Expects Same Treatment in Britain

New York, April 14 —(AP)—The most amateur of American athletes, a chap named Bing Crosby, departed today for the British golfing wars.

An amateur, says the dictionary, is one who practices an art for sport not as a livelihood or professionally, but for the love of it. That's Bing.

He is competing in the British Amateur golf tournament at St. Andrews, May 22-27.

"I've played in the American amateur," said Bing by way of explanation.

"How far did you get?" he was asked.

"Got beat in the first round."

"How far do you expect to get in the British amateur?"

"Same thing — but I want to watch the tournament."

That is not being fair to Bing. Actually he's a pretty good golfer in between being a movie star and crooner.

"I'm just a three handicap man," he said. "Anyone can play in the British Amateur with a three handicap or better. It's a great honor."

That means, he said, that he shoots three over par, by and large. Say 75 on a 72 par course.

To tell the truth he had a couple of 68's this year.

"That's on a business men's courses," he said. "St. Andrews is a back-breaker — the real shrine of gold."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, April 14 —(AP)—Events leading up to the major league baseball season indicate this will be the year when the bonus babies had better come through — or else.

At least two of them figure to be pitching regulars, Chuck Stobbs of Red Sox and Cur Simmons of Phillies.

Stobbs was a high-priced bench warmer at Boston until Joe McCarthy had to use him last season. He came through with eleven victories and could be just the guy the Sox need to complete a winning staff.

Meanwhile the Yankees, who haven't looked to solid this spring, are loaded with Paul Hinrichs and Jackie Jensen, who can't be sent out.

Stobbs had a 4-1 record last year, but he looks ready to go in the big league now. The Braves' Johnny Antonelli is about in the same spot.

Admittedly the bonus rule delayed their development, but that excuse won't last forever. If they, and others, don't produce soon, the other clubs may give up just as emphatically as Connie Mack decided against young Earle Brucker.

War Veterans Split Over Hospital Plan

(Editor's note: This is the last of five stories explaining the fight over the Hoover commission's proposal to lump the VA hospital program in with other government hospital programs.)

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, April 14 —(AP)— War veterans are on both sides in the fight over the Hoover commission's recommendations.

That commission suggested that all the government's big hospital programs — including that of the veterans administration (VA) — be placed in a brand new, independent agency.

This would take VA's hospitals away from that agency which was created to look out for veterans' needs.

Four big veterans organizations oppose the plan: The American Legion, the veterans of foreign wars, the American veterans of World War II, and the disabled American veterans.

For the idea are the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce, the citizens committee for the Hoover report (made up of private citizens), and the American veterans committee, which claims a membership of 25,000 veterans.

But some members of the various veterans organizations fighting for it.

For instance, Herman W. Steinkraus, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, is a member of the American Legion, the veterans of foreign wars, and the disabled American veterans.

Steinkraus has put out a 46-page booklet explaining the plan as he sees it and calling on veterans to support it.

The American Legion has turned yards of publicity opposing it. And the American veterans committee has been busy grinding out publicity and speeches in favor of the Hoover plan.

The AVC, with its 25,000 members and a staff of about eight in its Washington headquarters, is a pee-wee compared with the Legion which claims 3,000,000 members and has a staff of around 100 here.

But there has been bitterness in this fight between veterans. Michael Straight, national chairman of AVC, has charged the Legion has clamped down on free discussion of the Hoover plan in its posts around the country. (The Legion denies this and says it welcomes full discussion.)

And a month ago straight charged that "the Legion's top brass is not really concerned in providing better services for the veteran. Its concern is for the members of the Legion machine who are entrenched in cushy veterans administration jobs."

'12 O'Clock High' Stirring Drama of Aviation's Part in War

KRAMER WINS
Binghamton, N. Y., April 14 — Jack Kramer has won his 76th match in 100 professional tennis matches against Pancho Gonzales.
The score last night was 6-1, for Kramer.
In the preliminary, Frank Parker defeated Bobby Riggs, 6-4, 6-2. They play in Yonkers tonight.

The cedars of Lebanon are closely related to cedars on the Atlas Mountains of north Africa and other cedars in the Himalayas, but are different from American cedars.

Opens Sunday at Saenger

Sgt. Robert Arthur is explaining to General Gregory Peck just how come it was he stowed away and flew a battle mission he was not supposed to. Arthur, one of the most promising younger actors, and Peck, top male star of the day, are to be seen in Twentieth Century-Fox's "12 O'Clock High," at the Saenger Theatre starting Sunday.

Gregory Peck Stars in Saenger Feature Sunday

Gregory Peck in "12 O'Clock High," Twentieth Century-Fox's mid-century movie which had its triumphant world premiere on the West Coast at the end of 1949 and is the first major Hollywood production of 1950 has been announced as the next attraction at the Saenger Theatre, where its engagement will begin Sunday.

The intimate and yet spectacular dramatic story of "12 O'Clock High" tells, through the eyes of a dozen colorful flyers, of aviation's part in the recent war and the rising prestige of daylight bombing. The definitive aviation film of the war, it contains specially staged crash sequences quite unlike any ever attempted before as well as authentic German and American combat footage not previously released to the public.

The picture stars Peck in the role of General Frank Savage, commander of the fictional 918th Bomb Group, which is reportedly based on the actual history of the 305th Bomb Group. Authors Sy Bartlett and Beirne Lay, Jr. wrote it from their own experience.

The key part of Savage, whose real life prototype is General Frank Armstrong, Peck has called his finest role. And in it he is said to give his finest performance. One of the longest and toughest assignments Peck has ever drawn, the part calls for him to risk his personal stability for the sake of transforming a demoralized, straggling army group at the outset of the war into a trim, efficient fighting unit that had a great deal to do with the winning of it. To accomplish this, General Savage must adopt a steel exterior and drive his men, like himself, hard. Eventually, as he must, he cracks — but not before his job is done, and done well.

For the screen's leading male star Twentieth Century-Fox has provided the stellar backing of an auspicious cast, including Hugh Marlowe and Gary Merrill, both well-known on the New York stage but new to movies; the popular character actor Millard Mitchell; the young favorite Robert Arthur; the skillful Paul Stewart, respected for his fine work in such recent films as "Champion" and "The Window"; and newcomers John Kellogg, Bob Patten, and Joyce MacKenzie. Also featured is Dean Jagger, remembered for his first starring success as Brigham Young in the picture of that name, and said to add a new dimension to his career in "12 O'Clock High."

"12 O'Clock High" is another of Darryl F. Zanuck's personal productions, more than ever the

(Editor's note: This is the fourth of five stories explaining the fight over the Hoover commission's proposal to lump the VA hospital program in with other government hospital programs.)

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, April 13 — (P) — No one questions the power and energy of the American Legion. It claims 3,000,000 members, about 2,100,000 of them paid up.

In its Washington headquarters alone it has a staff of about 100 people. And it has employees all around the country. So it has a big machine to throw into any fight it starts.

It has started and is leading a fight against the Hoover commission's recommendation to lump all the government's big hospitals — army, navy, public health service and veterans administration (VA) — in one new agency to be called the United Medical Administration. This would take the VA's medical and hospital programs away from VA. The Legion is a giant that it wants VA to keep its own hospitals independent and separate from any other government agency.

In this fight it has the support of three other big veterans' groups: The veterans of foreign wars; disabled American veterans; and the Amvets.

The Legion has called upon its 17,351 posts to get into the fight so that congress won't approve any bills to make the Hoover recommendation a reality.

In a broadside to all its posts, the Legion sent out this word: "Make no mistake about this: When you are notified that these bills have been submitted (in congress) contact your senators and congressmen. . . And do it in such a forceful manner that they will know you mean what you say."

"Make sure that every hostile editorial or news item printed in your hometown newspaper is challenged and answered with the information contained in this sheet. Talk with the editor and make sure he fully understands the issue. . . (Some of the biggest newspapers have soundly slapped the Legion for the kind of campaign it's waging.)"

"The time for silk gloves is past. Now is the time to take off the gloves. . . Use brass knuckles if necessary."

In this broadside the legion said the Hoover plan would "smash" and "dismember" the VA as a "knife in the backs of the men and women who have honorably served their country."

The Legion argues that the Hoover plan would tangle the veteran in red tape, deprive him of benefits due, and cut down his chances of getting needed hospital care.

When the commander of the Legion, George M. Craig, recently went before a congressional committee considering a bill to put VA hospitals under a new agency, he had to answer for that broadside, particularly the phrase about "brass knuckles."

Craig said he thought the phrase was "unfortunate" but denied the Legion was trying to exert any political pressure on congressmen in this congressional election year.

The Legion and Craig and the other veterans organizations were not alone in opposing the Hoover plan.

As early as last summer, just a few months after the Hoover commission made its recommendation, the head of the veterans administration, Carl N. Gray, Jr., had this to say: "I must strongly recommend stamp of screen leadership in view of Zanuck's recent record as producer of 'Pinky', 'The Snake Pit' and 'Gentlemen's Agreement'. The veteran master of scores of great movies, and a longtime aviator, Henry King, directed '12 O'Clock High.'"

Betty Davis Heads Cast at Rialto Sunday

In a vehicle almost tailored specially for the great acting talent that she is, Betty Davis will appear on the Rialto screen beginning Sunday in "Beyond the Forest," an amazing story of an ambitious woman who uses love to gain her ends.

The Warner Bros. picture, which co-stars Joseph Cotten, is adapted from the novel by Stuart Engstrand, and was filmed almost entirely on location in the rugged California lakes area, simulating the great hunting and fishing lands of the middle northern part of the country.

Set among the pines and rocks of the outdoors, this strange story tells of Rosa Moline, a strong-willed, arrogant though beautiful woman, a native of that part of the state, who sets her cap for a wealthy landowner of the region. This part is played by David Brian, the new leading man who scored so heavily as Joan Crawford's vis-avis in "Flamingo Road."

The girl is already married, however, to Joseph Cotten, a quiet respected doctor. Determined to run away with Brian, she learns she is to have a baby. How the character of Rosa Moline proceeds from there to entwine, involve and nearly ruin those close to her her greatest histrionic tests since "Jezebel," the role which won against adoption of these recommendations. . . It is in basic conflict with the traditional policy of the government to accord to veterans, as a class, special consideration through one agency responsible for administering the various benefit programs."

Eleven doctors, all distinguished men, were on the staff of experts which studied the recommendation for the Hoover commission before it finally gave approval.

Yet, other doctors have condemned it. For example, there was Dr. Charles W. Mayo of the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn. Dr. Mayo is chairman of the medical advisory board of the VA and is also vice chairman of the American Legion's advisory board.

He told a congressional committee, which is considering a bill to put the Hoover recommendation into law, that he was against it and he said the thought the result would be "inefficient."

Opens Sunday at Rialto

BETTY DAVIS is coldly unresponsive to JOSEPH COTTEN in this dramatic scene from Warner Bros' "BEYOND THE FOREST."

her the Academy Award a few years ago.
Also in "Beyond the Forest" is beautiful Ruth Roman, who came to the fore in "Champion" and is now also in the Milton Gerle comedy "Always Leave Them Laughing." The film was directed by King Vidor from a screenplay by Lenore Coffee.

3 Fugitives Surprised, Captured

Abingdon, Va., April 13 — (P) — Police surprised three widely sought desperadoes asleep in a stolen car today and captured them at rifle point without a struggle. The trio . . . all escaped convicts . . . shot a policeman and robbed two West Virginians last week.

There were nabbed as other officers searched south Arkansas and north Louisiana, in which vicinity the three were reported seen yesterday.

A farmer tipped authorities on a suspicious car parked near the Taylor's valley section of south-west Virginia. A deputy sheriff asked three gun-wise citizens to give him a hand and made the arrests.

The motor of the car was running but the three occupants were asleep when the officer and his deputized aides arrived.
